From:

I recommend that this library or institution subscribe to the electronic Journal of Global Change and Governance (ISSN: 1941-8760), a journal published by the Division of Global Affairs (DGA) Rutgers University. The contents of the journal are available free of charge. Your library will benefit from a subscription to this journal as it will contribute to students' and faculty knowledge of global affairs.

The new Journal of Global Change and Governance (JGCG) is an interdisciplinary e-journal dedicated to advancing the academic discipline of global affairs. It serves as a medium for scholars and professionals to exchange views on the relationships among globalization, the post-cold war realignment of great-power relations, traditional interstate politics, and the growing prominence of international institutions, transnational corporations, non-governmental organizations, and social movements. The journal represents a variety of disciplines, including: anthropology, business, criminal justice, economics, history, law, philosophy, political science, public affairs and administration.

To read current and past issues and learn more about this journal visit <http://www.JGCG.org> . To subscribe, kindly add this URL to your library catalogue.

Sincerely,

Journal of Global Change and Governance
