The master’s program in Applied Physics trains Master of Science students at an advanced level in aspects of experimental and theoretical applied physics.

Learning Goal 1 for Students: Master the fundamental knowledge of the field.

Learning Goal 2 for Students: Engage in and conduct original research (for Master’s degrees with thesis)

Learning Goal 3 for Students: Prepare professionals working in applied physics